CENTRAL DETECTIVE TRAINING INSTITUTE, CHANDIGARH

Only for private circulation

Vol.1, No.6, July to September., 2021

From the Director's Desk

Bringing out this E-issue of CDTI, Chandigarh Newsletter gives me immense satisfaction. In spite of the difficult times overshadowed by the pandemic, the CDTI Chandigarh could reinvent and rise to the occasion to conduct online training programmes for Police Officers, Judicial Officers & Prosecutors which were highly appreciated by the participants.

Although online training modules have limitations of conducting practical exercises and discussions but still with the help of faculty and associates we were able to design modules which were found practically useful, interesting & helpful in keeping the officers updated.

From July to Sept 2021, Sixteen (16) online courses/webinar have been conducted on Investigation of Crime against women & children, Women Safety, Investigation of Financial Fraud, Investigation of Organized Crime/Cyber crime, Gender sensitization and rights of transgender, Investigation of Drug trafficking crimes, Skill development & work life balance, Stress management, Investigation of Cyber Forensics, Analysis of Digital evidence and dark web, Wild life offences & Cyber law awareness programme for Judicial officers and Public prosecutors including two webinar on digital evidence, cyber crime investigations and its challenges in which 577 Police Officers and 87 Judicial Officers & Prosecutors participated.

With the pandemic situation improving, we are hopeful of starting regular courses soon. I extend my gratitude to all the stakeholders for their valuable inputs which always help us to do better.

Women Safety

In the words of Swami Vivekananda:

"The barometer to the progress of a nation is in treatment of its women"

The condition of women in India has always been a matter of grave concern. From equal status with men in ancient times to the fight for equal rights, women in India have been subject to many great changes over the past few millennia. In modern India, women have held high offices including that of the President, Prime Minister, Speaker of the Lok Sabha, etc., however, they continue to face atrocities and violence from womb to the tomb.

Women have difficulty in labeling their experiences as violence and harassment which leads to non reporting of crimes. Unlike the cases of sexual molestation registered in police stations, there is a large portion of women in India who are subjected to rape and other forms of sexual assault on a daily basis and still their cases go unnoticed. This state of affairs exists even when the Constitution of India guarantees to all Indian women, equality, no discrimination by the State, equality of opportunity, and equal pay for equal work.

The major possible reasons for increasing sexual violence against women in India includes- Poorly lit urban spaces, inadequate police patrolling, Lack of stringent laws for punishing sexual assault, increasing objectification of women by media as an object for sexual satisfaction, inefficient and apathetic attitude of law enforcement agencies, Patriarchal structure of Indian society, etc.

The United Nations has been an advocate for women's rights since its inception in 1945, known collectively as the 'International Bill of Rights', and the Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination Against Women (CEDAW) (2012). The Government of India has also taken several steps and policy measures to safeguard rights of women in India, declaring 2001 as the Year of Women's Empowerment (Swashakti). The National Policy for the Empowerment of Women, 2001, aims to advance, develop and empower women through gender sensitization and by ensuring access to some fundamental rights for women in India. Despite all these, there is an unspoken truth that women in India are subjected to lot of hardships. Perhaps, the biggest crime against humanity is perpetrated against women, threatening their safety and security.

The daily reporting in various news papers and data is speaking for itself. The actual need of the hour is a revolutionary change in the mindsets and conscience of Indian men so that they stop seeing women as objects of sexual pleasure. Women also need to retaliate and reject the notion that it is okay to be treated inappropriately. So, the onus is on us to wake up and do whatever it takes. About 50% of India's registered voters are women, we need an India that is sensitive to women. This is the time we own up to ourselves. No more Harassment. We want what we deserve - for us and for our daughters – a safer India for women.
